Tommy Williams named CFO of IVS, Inc.-AngelTrax

NEWTON, Ala. – February 18, 2015 — IVS, Inc.-AngelTrax, a leading supplier of in-vehicle video surveillance technology, announced today its recent selection of Tommy Williams as the company’s chief financial officer (CFO). Williams comes to AngelTrax with more than 37 years’ experience in the financial services industry.

“AngelTrax is a fast-growing company and a leader in its field,” Williams said. “I am excited to join the team and be a part of its continued growth. AngelTrax continues to lead the industry in innovative product development and market growth, and it is an exciting time to be a part of this team.”

Richie Howard, president and CEO of IVS, Inc.-AngelTrax, said the addition of Williams to the company reflects the growth of the AngelTrax brand in the industry.

“The AngelTrax brand continues to be the leader in the mobile digital video surveillance industry,” Howard said. “With the recent launch of the new VizuCop police video brand, we anticipate even greater growth. The addition of someone with Tommy’s background as the CFO is a natural addition to the AngelTrax family. He brings many years of accounting and personnel experience from the forest products industry with him and will be a natural fit at AngelTrax.”

Williams is a native of Dothan, Ala., and is a graduate of Dothan High School and Troy University. Williams began his career as a cost accountant and has continued to develop his career with organizations such as Champion International Corporation of Abbeville, Ala., and most recently with Arnold Lumber Company, where he served 13 years as comptroller.
